Indianapoles, Ind., January 3.—Attorney-General Smith filed a petition in the Supreme Court to-day asking for a rehearing in the apportionment case, and the petition will now be passed upon by the new court, which entered upon its duties vesterday and a majority of whom are Democrats. He alleges that the court erred in holding that it had jurisdiction of matters which are left to the discretion of the Legislature by the Constitution, and that the adoption of an apportienment faw by the Legislature is an act that the court cannot review or overturn without clearly infringing on the functions of adepartment of the State government of equal authority with itself. The filing of the petition is expected to bring up the question of waiving the sixty-day rule, which was done without the Attorney-General's knowledge, and upon which he will ask to be heard when the reopening of the case is objected to by the opposing attorneys, and the wayver is urged as a bar to fature proceedings. One Man Killed and a Number Fatally and Others Less Seriously Wounded-Another Fight Imminent.

LOUISVILLE, KY., January 3.—The bloodiest fight in Magoffin county's history took place to-day about one mile from Salvers. ville. Eight or ten of the county's bestknown citizens were engaged on each side, armed with repeating rifles and navy pistols, and the trouble, which had its inception in a trivial matter the day before, culminated in a pitched battle.

John Davis was killed by a pistol-shot said to have been fired after he was disable; and disarmed. W. F. Deakins, constable, was fatally wounded by a shot in the right hip, the ball ranging upward. M. Deakins, a justice of the peace, has not been tound since the fight, but he left a bloody trail on the snow through a wood near the scene of the battle, and is supposed to be fatally wounded. The gun with which he is known to have been armed was found to-day in the woods.

WHY THE GALLIA PROCEEDED. More Unofficial Explanation of Her Leaving the Umbria.

LONDON, January 3.—The Gallia arrived at Liverpool to-day. Captain Ferguson and his officers persisted in their refusal to talk on the subject of the Umbria without having first consulted the management of the line. The passengers, of course, felt no such obligation, and readily enough explained the situation as it appeared to them. They said that the Umbria signalled to the Gallia requesting that steamer to stand by for twenty-four hours. steamer to stand by for twenty-four hours, Captain McKay stating that the shaft would probably be repaired within that time.

The Gallia waited for three hours.
Then Captain Ferguson signalled to the Umbria that his vessel had only sufficient coal on board to reach Liverpool, and upon a Captain Ferguson de-coal on board to reach Liverpool, and upon sending this me sage Captain Ferguson decided to proceed.

The passengers are uncertain whether Captain McKay protested against the Gallia's proceeding. The passengers all agree, however, that the condition of the Umbria did not warfant any apprehension of danger at the time the Gallia steamed away on her yource. away on her voyage.

The Cunard management will issue an official statement based on the report received from Captain Ferguson.

THE OFFICIAL EXPLANATION. The Cunard Company have issued an of-cial statement of the Gallia-Umbria incident. In this statement Captain Fergu-son, of the Gallia, says that when his steamer approached the Umbria he saw a steamer lying in proximity to her blowing off steam.

The Umbria was lying like a duck in the water and formed a perfect picture of se-curity, while the Gallia was rolling. On reading the signal question "Shaft broken" Ferguson consulted with his chief engineer.

The latter officer was satisfied from the next signal, "Ready to proceed to-morrow," that the Umbria was in no dauger.

AGAINST SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS. 2 Decision Under an Old Blue Law Sustained-Dangerous Friends. PRILADPLEMA, P.A., January 3.—The Supreme Court, with a full bench, to-day affirmed the validity of the old blue law of 1704 in relation to the publication of Sunday newspapers. The case was that of Thomas Matthews, publisher of the Pittsburg Sunday Leader, convicted of publishing and issuing his paper on Sunday under the act of 1794, which prohibits the following of worldly pursuits on the Sabbath save those which are an absolute necessity for the wants of the community. The Supreme Court in affirming the decision of the lower court gives its opinion that the law upon the subject is plan and it could do nothing but interpret it as it did and confirm Mr. Matthews's conviction. The court says that the framers of the act of 17% could not foresee the growth of newspapers, or that they would possibly have exempted them from the provisions of the set. The court, in conclusion, commends the act, but says that the too literal enforcement of its provisions may lead to its repeal, and that it is in more danger from its friends than its foes.

New York, January 3.—It is stated that owing to the attacks made in several papers upon the result of Monsignor Satolli's mission to this country a circular has been prepared by some of the best known priests of the Archdiocese of New York protesting against the criticisms of an unfavorable nature on his works. It hints that certain prelates of the Roman Catholic Church are behind the criticism against Satolli, and, in setting forth the reasons for this, makes a strong intimation of Cahensleyism. It means, says the circular, that German, Irish, Polish, Hungarian, Italian, and other national customs, which [By telegraph to the Dispatch.] lat, that German, 1786, Folias, Hungarias, Italian, and other national customs, which should have been left on the other side of the Atlantic, will be fostered here, where none should be welcome except those willing to give up allegiance to everything but America and her customs.

Populist-Democratic Victory.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

SALEM, ORE. January 3.—The Supreme Court has rendered a decision in the mandamus proceedings to compel the Secretary of State in making his official canvass of votes cast for presidential electors at the recent elections to abstain from counting the votes cast in counties where the name of Pierce (Populist-Democratic elector) appeared twice on the official ballot. The court decided in favor of Pierce, which gives one electoral vote to the Populists. The court held that the printing of Pierce's name on the ballot more than once was contrary to the provisions of the statute, but that it was an error of the County Clerk, which error, the court holds, does not deprive the voter who cast the ballot of his elective franchise or the candidate for whom it was cast of the benefit of such vote.
